The workshop/webinar will be conducted in an interactive manner and allow for questions by participants.

The negotiations on the text of the Investment Facilitation for Development (IFD) Agreement are approaching conclusion. The Investment Facilitation (IF) Self-Assessment Guide, developed together with seven partner international organizations under the coordination of the WTO Secretariat, aims to assist developing and LDC participating Members identify their implementation gaps, as well as their technical-assistance and capacity-building (TACB) needs to implement the Agreement. The draft IF Self-Assessment Guide will be introduced to WTO Members participating in the negotiations in the margins of the April IFD meetings, with the participation of the international organizations that contributed to the Guide.

Members that wish to do so will be able to conduct a self-assessment based on the Guide to evaluate their national situations pertaining to all “substantive” articles of the Draft IFD Agreement (i.e., those provisions that potentially require some action for their implementation). Thus, they will be able to identify actions necessary and time needed to comply with all relevant articles as well as the type and scale of TACB support that might be required. The “situational/gap analysis” will help Members to use the flexibility provided under the categorization of provisions (categories A, B, or C) that is key for enhancing participation, raising awareness, and mobilizing the TACB support necessary for the implementation of the Agreement. The self-assessments, modelled on a similar process conducted in the context of the Trade Facilitation Agreement (TFA), are meant to help Members to fully benefit from the IFD Agreement.

To support WTO Members that so wish preparing for the self-assessments, this workshop/webinar will focus on the operational aspects of the self-assessments. Aspects include: how to plan and ensure that stakeholders have the necessary knowledge about the IFD Agreement prior to the starting of the process; how to organize the assessments in an efficient manner; how to use the process to identify – to the fullest possible extent – implementation bottlenecks; how to coordinate among competent authorities and prepare them for the future implementation of the IFD Agreement; how to consult with stakeholders; how to ensure that stakeholder representatives remain in the self-assessment workshops for the entire time period; and how to categorize needs and notify the WTO Secretariat about technical assistance and capacity-building needs.

The workshop/webinar will provide an opportunity to share experiences regarding the conduct of self-assessments, including drawing on the experience of the assessments conducted in the context of the TFA; pilot assessments conducted in the context of the joint ITC and German Institute of Development and Sustainability (IDOS) project; and the assessments underway through the OECS/ITC project.

The workshop will also provide an opportunity for participating Members and international organizations working on investment facilitation to discuss and exchange views on the practical challenges in the organization of the self-assessments and how to overcome those challenges.

As usual, the results of the discussion will be communicated to the negotiators of the IFD Agreement.

We look forward to welcoming you to the workshop/webinar, both in person at the WTO premises and virtually via zoom!

With kind regards,

Rajesh Aggarwal, Director (oic), Division for Market Development, ITC

Karl P. Sauvant, Senior Fellow, Columbia University, CCSI
